

HACU Eighth PreK-12 Higher Education Collaboration Symposium

October 8, 2022 | Manchester Grand Hyatt San Diego | San Diego, California

San Diego, California

Initiated in 2015, the PreK-12/Higher Education Collaborative Symposium is a pre-conference event focusing on high impact collaborative practices implemented between colleges, universities, school districts and the community that have led to systemic change.

The Symposium benefits higher education leaders, PreK-12 administrators and other community stakeholders to be able to promote and empower their communities to implement collaborative practices utilizing the resources and connections highlighted during the Symposium.

This day-long activity, composed of three panel discussions, has previously focused on:

- Using Research and Policy to Address Inequities in Education
- Creating Diverse Teacher Pipelines
- Addressing Inequities through Outside Collaboration
- Using Data to Address Inequity
- Creating STEM Career Pathways
- Addressing Inequities through Collaborative Partnerships
- University Outreach Collaborative Programs
- Community Partnerships/P-20 Councils
- Early College High School Models
- Achieving Equity in Education through Collaborative Programs
- Student and Parent Engagement
- Teacher Development
- Student Reentry Programs
- Building a Pathway to College Engagement
- Building Pipelines from K-12 to College & Career
- Collaborations between Community Partners

Symposium Objectives include:

- Identifying effective collaborative programs between school districts and institutions of higher education as they impact matriculation, retention and graduation
- Providing resources and connections, so that administrators of Hispanic-Serving School Districts and Hispanic-Serving Institutions can further develop PK-16 collaborations, programs and policies that foster student access and success
- Empowering higher education leaders, PreK-12 administrators and other community stakeholders to promote and form high impact collaborative practices utilizing the resources and connections made during the Symposium
